

EXPERIENCE:

For the past 16 years, Vikki has been producing editorial and marketing content for the construction, engineering, public works and real estate industries. She has been an integral part of award-winning editorial and marketing teams and has served as a judge for both the Jessie H. Neal Awards for business journalism and the American Society of Business Publication Editors' Azbee Awards. With her combined industry knowledge and editorial background, Vikki can turn technical information into engaging content for target audiences.
